..datasource.jdbc.driver=com.mysql.jdbc.Driver
```

spring.datasource.url=jdbc:mysql://localhost:3306/mysql?serverTimezone=GMT%2B8 spring.datasource.username=root spring.datasource.password=root spring.datasource.driver-class-name=com.mysql.jdbc.Driver

I am using the latest Spring Boot version. A: I am not 100% sure about the MySQL version that you are using. My bet is that MySQL version >= 8.0 supports the JDBC 4.2 standard. If you are using an older version of MySQL, check the JDBC driver documentation to make sure that it supports the 4.2 standard. I would expect to have a database.yml configuration file in the root of the project. If the version of the MySQL server is indeed greater than or equal to 8.0, then you should be able to use the following configuration:

spring.datasource.url=jdbc:mysql://localhost:3306/mysql spring.datasource.username=root spring.datasource.password=root spring.datasource.driver-class-name=com.mysql.jdbc.Driver spring.jpa.properties.hibernate.dialect =
org.hibernate.dialect.MySQL5InnoDBDialect

Once you have the above configuration, I would suggest that you include the driver-maven-plugin to use the mysql-connector-java dependency. This way you won't have to deal with trying to include the driver as a dependency in your POM. To do this, you will add the following snippet to your application.properties file: spring.jpa.database-platform=org.hibernate.dialect.MySQL5InnoDBDialect spring.jpa.properties.hibernate.dialect = org.hibernate.dialect.MySQL5InnoDBDialect and create the following file in src/main/resources: /mysql-connector-java-5.1.29.jar
